CARDIOLOGY UPDATE
NEW THERAPIES, TECHNOLOGIES
AND BEST PRACTICES
February 15-16, 2019
VANDERBILT HEART
Nashville Marriott at Vanderbilt University | VanderbiltHeartCME.com
PROGRAM DESCRIPTION
This program is designed to assist participants in approaching the individual patient with cardiovascular disease and will cover the presentation of typical patients with common cardiovascular conditions.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES
After participating in this CME activity, clinical participants should be able to describe and discuss:
• strategies to reduce the development of atrial fibrillation
• application of anticoagulation guidelines individualized to patient and procedure
• the resources and mechanisms to improve patient access to PCSK-9 therapy
• office-based strategies for risk factor assessment and modification in patients with cardiovascular disease
• how to incorporate obesity treatment and counseling into an office based practice

TARGET AUDIENCE
Practitioners who care for patients with acute and chronic cardiovascular conditions, including cardiologists, internal medicine specialists, primary care providers, family physicians, nurse practitioners, and nurses.

Ranked among the Top 20 programs for Cardiology & Heart Surgery in the nation by U.S. News & World Report, Vanderbilt Heart & Vascular Institute provides patients with the most advanced diagnostic tools, evidence-based therapies and opportunities to participate in innovative clinical trials.

As part of an academic medical center, our scientists and clinicians perform research in basic, clinical, and translational science aimed at understanding the causes of cardiovascular disease and the translation of this knowledge to improved patient care.
