Requirements for Promotion to Associate Professor

• Excellence in research/scholarship
• National recognition in one’s discipline
• Effectiveness in teaching
• Satisfactory performance in service

https://medschool.vanderbilt.edu/faculty/details-appointments-and-promotions#promotion
What do you need to do as a faculty member?

- Publish
- Get funding
- Teach
- Communicate your science
- Service
  - University
  - Scientific community

Most important thing is to show consistency!
Consistency of Funding

(1)“…provide evidence of a consistent pattern of support for the candidate's research and scholarly efforts…”

(1)“…evidence that continuing and sustainable resources will be available to support their future scholarly efforts.”

I would be very happy to look over your letter
Documents required for promotion package

- Chair recommendation
- External references (5)
- Teaching references (3)
- CV in correct format
- Critical references
- Five reprints
- Documentation of teaching
1. Give more names than they ask for
2. Usually…references must have the following
   - Be at a peer institution
   - Tenure at their institution
   - Have not published with you in past five years
   - Cannot be a current collaborator
3. Do not be shy…make connections
Where do these references come from?

• Get known in the scientific community
• Body of work
• Networking
  – Go to meetings
  – Study section
  – Meet with visiting speakers
  – Interact with other labs
• Hit people up for seminar invitations!

Teaching references

1. Give more names than they ask for
2. Teaching references can come from the following…
   - Medical students (classroom and clinic)
   - Graduate students (in class)
   - Current and former graduate students in your lab
   - Current and former fellows in your lab
   - Thesis committees
   - Faculty you have team taught with

CV should include

1. Education and training
2. Professional/society memberships
3. Intramural activities
   - Department/university committees
   - Seminar series organizer
   - Training grant activities
   - Mentoring committees
4. Extramural activities
   - Editorial boards
   - Grant review panels
   - Peer review (list journals)
   - Organizing local or national meetings
   - Session chair at a conference
   - Abstract review for conference
CV should include

6. Honors and awards
7. Teaching
   - In the clinic
   - In the lab
   - In the classroom
   - Giving seminars or journal clubs on campus
   - Thesis committees
   - Course director

Do not just give a list…summarize changes you made to the course if a course director.

You should list former and current trainees by name, if they graduated, give date and where they are now.
CV should include

8. Current and past funding
   - list title, funding period, dollar amount, % effort

9. Publications
   - Primary research articles
   - Reviews and book chapters
   - Published abstracts

Yes, quality of publications is important, but so is regularity and quantity. Don’t sit on things…get them out! Average rule of thumb: one paper per grant per year minimum. Need ~7-10 papers where you are senior or corresponding author; about 25-35 total pubs

10. Invited talks…off campus! (~3-4 per year; other institutions, conferences)

Critical References

Minimum of five references...can be same as reprints. Medicine has a specific form for this.

Need to summarize each reference briefly and your role on the project.

Need to highlight significance of this publication to the field (new reagent now being shared with community, challenged a prior dogma, new insight, new gene, demonstrates your collaborative nature, etc.)

Documentation of teaching

Medicine has a specific online form that needs to be filled out.

Need to know course title and how many student contact hours you had.

Also need to list names, status, inclusive dates for all supervised research.

A lot of this is redundant with your CV.
